Training Program

Citizen Developer Foundation spotlights UiPath StudioX – the no-code tool that allows you to build smaller task automations using simple drag-and-drop capabilities and serves as a perfect fit for users who have no or little development experience. This training encourages you, as a subject matter expert, to automate what you think needs to be automated and provides all the necessary resources to do that.

Let's deep dive into how you can save yourself—and potentially your department—from work boredom with the help of the UiPath Citizen Developer Foundation Academy training. The whole learning plan consists of eleven courses that guide you step by step in building and managing your own software robot. From getting familiar with StudioX interface to becoming an independent RPA expert who can handle errors and run the attended automation – we'll get your automation needs covered.

Through this training, you'll learn how to automate across the most common applications in your tech stack including Microsoft Word, Excel, Outlook, File Manager, and others. In addition, you'll get familiar with UiPath Platform for end-to-end hyperautomation and will be able to reuse the learning materials by sharing them with your colleagues and building your own automation portfolio.
